

A large rectangular box containing six horizontal lines on the left side, serving as a template for text entry. A small black mark is visible inside the box, positioned between the second and third lines from the top.

A large rectangular box at the bottom of the page, currently empty, intended for additional text or content.